STORYBOARD

Activity/Graphic/Visual Storyboard

When to Use: Audio, Comic Strip, Demonstration, Distance Learning, Photographs, Timeline, Tour, Video, etc.

1. Your task is to develop a storyboard to help you organize your thoughts just like you would if you were producer developing a music video, television program, or movie.
2. Lay your story out with a picture in a box of what will be happening for each major event.
3. Place a label below each picture, between 1-3 words, to represent the action that will be occurring.
4. Only use as many boxes as you need. If you need more boxes, add sheets of paper.
5. If you don't like the sequence that you've placed things, rearrange the boxes until you like the order.
6. Finally, your last event should always summarize the events in some way that brings closure for your audience.
